Chapter 2 Literature Review

2.1INTRODUCTION

Base Isolation is one of the popular passive control techniques (Sinha, 2004). The parameters of various isolators used in this study are tabulated in Table 2.1 so that initial period of all isolators should be 2 s.

Isolator Type	FPS	VFPI	CFPI
Parameter value	R = 1 m	d = 0.3 m	R = 1 m
		b = 0.09 m	$d_b = 0.1R = 0.1 \text{ m}$

Table 2.1: Values of parameter of various isolators for $T_i = 2$ s

2.1.1 Elastomeric Bearings

Base isolation is considered to be an aseismic design approach in which the building is protected from the hazards of earthquake forces by a mechanism which reduces the transmission of horizontal acceleration into the structure (Malu and Murnal, 2012).

2.1.1.1 New Zealand System (NZ)

The section and elements of NZ system are shown in Figure 2.1(a), the analytical model is shown in Figure 2.1(b), and the force deformation behavior is shown in Figure 2.1(c). (Punmia et. al., 2004)
